MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR
SPECIALIZED LITERACY PROFESSIONALS (SLP)

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

As the Chair of the Specialized Literacy Professionals, I am thrilled to welcome you to the 2016 Literacy Summit, co-sponsored by the Specialized Literacy Professionals, the Texas Association for Literacy Education (TALE), and the University of the Incarnate Word. The program is rich with wonderful sessions highlighting the most current thinking on What’s Hot and What Should Be Hot in Literacy Instruction and Research.

The Summit provides exceptional professional learning opportunities and a wide range of sessions, including featured speaker and topical sessions, author sessions, and roundtables; all offer diverse perspectives on literacy instruction and research. Do not miss the keynote speakers and the book authors, including featured children’s author Guadalupe Garcia McCall. They will be fabulous.

I hope that you will establish some new routines by attending sessions that are different from the ones you may typically choose, seeking opportunities to share your teaching stories and learn from the experiences of others, and connecting with new colleagues. We will all benefit from your active involvement.

Please join me for the wine and cheese reception Friday evening and the sampling of the food choices offered by San Antonio food trucks on Saturday (can’t wait to get in line for these). Help me celebrate the appearance of the book authors and greet the authors at the book signings.

Consider joining our Specialized Literacy Professionals, a Special Interest Group of the International Literacy Association. We are a dynamic group of classroom and content teachers, literacy specialists, literacy coaches, instructional leaders, university professors, and researchers. Our goal is to support literacy professionals and their efforts to provide high quality literacy instruction and we meet that goal through publications, newsletters, webinars, sessions at the annual meeting of ILA, and our own sponsored conferences, such as the Summit. We will also hold a business meeting at the Summit! Please plan to attend and become a member of our group.

Enjoy great experiences at the Summit! I look forward to meeting each of you.

Dr. Victoria J. Risko
Chair, Specialized Literacy Professionals SIG
MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT
TEXAS ASSOCIATION FOR LITERACY EDUCATION (TALE)

Welcome Colleagues,

On behalf of the TALE board, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the 2016 Literacy Summit. It is an exciting time in TALE history. We are celebrating our 4th year of inception and we have returned to the beautiful city of San Antonio, where we officially became an organization. We are honored to collaborate with the University of the Incarnate Word and the Specialized Literacy Professionals to host this year’s Summit.

In our four years as an organization, we have grown to over 275 members, created opportunities for our members to participate in committees, and become an organization that informs our members about literacy. We are excited about the future of TALE. During these two days, we will have the opportunity to celebrate, discuss, and learn from each other. This is a rewarding opportunity for us to be able to gather as literacy professionals and share our mutual knowledge and experience. Please enjoy the 2016 Literacy Summit!

Thank you,
Dr. Roberta D. Raymond
TALE President, 2015-2016

Literacy Research and Practice — Celebrating 20 Years of What’s Hot

Jack Cassidy, Stephanie Grote-Garcia, and Evan Ortlieb

The International Literacy Association’s What’s Hot in Literacy survey began 20 years ago as a means to gauge the attention various topics were receiving in the field of reading education. Since then, the survey has been completed annually with 25 literacy leaders throughout North America and the world. Respondents of the survey are asked which topics are currently receiving attention (i.e., “hot”) and which ones are not (i.e., “not hot”). In this keynote session, Jack Cassidy, Stephanie Grote-Garcia, and Evan Ortlieb share the 2016 survey results and discuss the “HOTTEST TOPICS” in literacy education.

Dr. Jack Cassidy, Professor Emeritus at Millersville University in Pennsylvania, is known for his work on literacy trends and issues as exemplified by numerous articles in professional journals, as well as his yearly column in Literacy Today, “What’s Hot, What’s Not in Literacy.” Dr. Cassidy has authored a number of text series for K-12 students, including Read-Reason-Write. He is a former President of the International Reading Association (recently renamed the International Literacy Association/ILA) and the College Reading Association (recently renamed the Association of Literacy Educators and Researchers/ALER) and is the recipient of the A.B. Herr Award from that group for outstanding contributions to the field of reading. In addition, he was inducted into the Reading Hall of Fame in 2010 and received the ALER Laureate Award in the same year. Other awards include the ILA Special Service Award, Paul A Witty Meritorious Service Award, Pennsylvania Teacher Educator of the Year Award, and the LEADER ILA Special Interest Group Literacy Award. Dr. Cassidy also has many publications and much experience in the field of gifted education.
Dr. Stephanie Grote-Garcia, Associate Professor and Sister Theophane Power Endowed Chair in Education at the University of the Incarnate Word, has been recognized for exemplary faculty practices by the Center for Research, Evaluation, and Advancement for Teacher Education and has received the UIW Provost’s Legacy Teaching Award. Most recently, she received the Jack Cassidy Distinguished Service Award for contributions to literacy education from the Texas Association for Literacy Education (TALE). Stephanie has three books published with Kendall Hunt Publishing Company, including Diagnosis and Correction of Reading Habits, Teaching the Individual Reader, and Literacy Trends and Issues: What’s Hot. She has also co-authored the “What’s Hot, What’s Not in Literacy” survey with Jack Cassidy and currently serves on the Board of Directors for the Specialized Literacy Professionals, a Special Interest Group of the International Literacy Association (ILA).

Dr. Evan Ortlieb, Professor and Coordinator of the Literacy Program in the Department of Education Specialties at St. John’s University in New York City, is an internationally recognized leader in the field of literacy education with previous work experience in Singapore and Australia and whose expertise centers on struggling readers. He has published over 100 manuscripts that substantiate some of his contributions to the field, including a book series entitled, Literacy, Research, Practice and Evaluation, as well as new instruments and evidence of refined instructional practices now being used in reading interventions and teacher education programs worldwide. Evan currently serves as the President-Elect of the Specialized Literacy Professionals, on the Board of Directors of the International Innovative Community Group of the Literacy Research Association, and on the Editorial Board of Journal of Adolescent & Adult Literacy.

What Should be Hot and WHY

Victoria J. Risko, Jill Lewis-Spector, Estanislado S. Barrera IV, and Linda B. Gambrell

What topics should be the focus of current research? In this keynote session, Victoria Risko, Jill Lewis-Spector, Estanislado S. Barrera IV, and Linda Gambrell discuss topics that SHOULD BE HOT and WHY. Research concerning literacy coaches/reading specialists, teacher preparation, English Language Learners, and reading motivation will be examined. Best practices will also be shared.

Dr. Victoria J. Risko, Professor Emerita at Vanderbilt University, has taught in the language, literacy, and culture area of the Department of Teaching and Learning. She is a former classroom teacher and reading specialist. Her research focuses on teacher education and professional development, teacher reflection, reading comprehension, and uses of cases and multimedia environments to enhance learning — especially the learning of English learners and readers who are experiencing difficulties. Dr. Risko is Chair of the Specialized Literacy Professionals Special Interest Group of the International Literacy Association (ILA). She was the 2011–2012 President of the International Reading Association and she is a former President of the Association of Literacy Educators and Researchers (ALER). Her most recent book, co-authored with Doris Walker-Dalhouse, is Be That Teacher: Breaking the Cycle for Struggling Readers. She has published in numerous journals and research handbooks, and she is past co-editor of the Research in the Classroom column in The Reading Teacher. Dr. Risko received the New York Chancellor’s Award for Outstanding Teaching, a Distinguished Research in Education Award from the Association of Teacher Educators, the A. B. Herr Award and Laureate Award for distinguished contributions to reading education and research from Association for Literacy Educators and Researchers, and the Literary Award for distinguished leadership and contributions to global literacy from the International Literacy Association. She is also a member of the Reading Hall of Fame.
Dr. Jill Lewis-Spector, immediate Past President of the International Literacy Association, earned her doctorate from Rutgers University and was a Faculty Fellow at Princeton University. Previously a high school English teacher, Dr. Lewis-Spector is now Professor Emerita at New Jersey City University where she taught graduate education courses in reading, as well as reading basic skills courses for underprepared freshmen. She has been designated a “Distinguished Faculty” member by the New Jersey Office of Higher Education and the New Jersey Association of College for Teacher Education. She was a recipient of Special Service Awards from the International Reading Association, the American Reading Forum, and the New Jersey Reading Association and is this year’s recipient of the Leader Literacy Award from the ILA LEADER Special Interest Group. Dr. Lewis-Spector was lead volunteer in Macedonia for ILA’s Secondary Education Project, as well as for ILA’s Reading and Writing for Critical Thinking Project, and internationally has provided professional development in more than 25 countries. Throughout her career, Dr. Lewis-Spector has worked extensively with various governmental agencies, advocating for better schools and more resources for teachers. She has authored numerous articles on such topics as professional development, advocacy, and adolescent literacy, as well as six textbooks, including Academic Literacy: Readings and Strategies, now in its fourth edition. Her interests include adolescent literacy, preparing teachers to meet high standards, and education policies that promote high literacy achievement.

Dr. Estanislado S. Barrera IV is an assistant professor of literacy studies at Louisiana State University (LSU). Barrera’s teaching and research focus on the role of reading, writing, and discourse as related to comprehension; meeting the needs of emerging bilingual students; and developing preservice teachers' instructional expertise through service learning field experiences in urban settings. In addition to his scholarship, Barrera serves as a co-director for the LSU Writing Project and is editor of the e-Journal of Balanced Reading Instruction. He also serves as an ELL consultant for Scholastic. Prior to accepting the position at LSU, he accrued eleven years of experience in South Texas public schools as an elementary teacher, a Title-I Specialist, and administrator.
Dr. Linda B. Gambrell, Distinguished Professor of Education in the Eugene T. Moore School of Education at Clemson University, teaches graduate and undergraduate literacy courses. Prior to joining Clemson University in 1999, she was Associate Dean for Research in the College of Education at University of Maryland at College Park. She began her career as an elementary classroom teacher and reading specialist in Prince George's County, Maryland. From 1992-97, she was Principal Investigator at the National Reading Research Center, University of Maryland, where she directed the Literacy Motivation Project. She served as an elected member of the Board of Directors of the International Literacy Association, National Reading Conference, and College Reading Association, and also served as President of all three organizations. Her major research areas are literacy motivation, the role of discussion in teaching and learning, and comprehension strategy instruction. She authored/co-authored 10 books and over 100 chapters and journal articles on literacy. Her research has been published in major scholarly journals, including Reading Research Quarterly, Educational Psychologist, and Journal of Educational Research. She served on the editorial review boards of the most prestigious peer-reviewed journals in the field of literacy. She served as co-editor of The Journal of Reading Behavior, a publication of the National Reading Conference, and Literacy Teaching and Learning: An International Journal of Reading and Writing. Linda received professional honors and awards, including the College Reading Association A.B. Herr Award for Outstanding Contributions to the Field of Reading, 1994; International Reading Association Outstanding Teacher Educator in Reading Award, 1998; National Reading Conference Albert J. Kingston Award, 2001; College Reading Association Laureate Award, 2002; Outstanding Faculty Member in Research, Eugene T. Moore School of Education, 2008; and in 2004, she was inducted into the Reading Hall of Fame. In 2014, Linda received the Clemson University Alumni Award for Outstanding Research Achievement.

Teaching Our Way to Success:
Integrating New Literacies for New Times into Our Reading Classrooms

Donald J. Leu

Three important changes to reading education are taking place today: 1) more reading of informational text; 2) an increase in higher-level thinking skills; and 3) the appearance of digital literacies. Reading on the Internet is the perfect way to accomplish all three in your classroom. Join us for an exciting session that explores new ideas about reading in these new times. You will come away with engaging instructional ideas to use in your classroom tomorrow, including how to connect your students with other classrooms around the world to complete collaborative inquiry projects. We will also explore a set of newly developed, formative assessments of students’ abilities to conduct online research, comprehend, and learn in science. These were developed in a large federal research grant at the New Literacies Research Lab and are now free online.

Dr. Donald J. Leu is the John and Maria Neag Endowed Chair in Literacy and Technology at the University of Connecticut and a former fourth grade teacher and reading specialist. He holds a joint appointment in Curriculum and Instruction and Educational Psychology in the Neag School of Education. A graduate of Michigan State, Harvard, and Berkeley, he is an international authority on literacy education, especially the new skills and strategies required to read, write, and learn with Internet technologies and the best instructional practices that prepare students for these new literacies. Don directs the New Literacies Research Lab in the Neag School of Education. He is a member of the Reading Hall of Fame, Past President of the Literacy Research Association, and a former member of the Board of Directors of the International Reading Association. Don was recently featured in the documentary Out of Print, directed by Vivienne Roumani and narrated by Meryl Streep. He edited the Handbook of Research on New Literacies and has more than 100 research publications and seventeen books on topics that range from the new literacies of online research and comprehension to teacher education and phonemic awareness. He is a frequent speaker at major conferences and has given keynote addresses in Europe, Australia, Asia, South America, and North America. State-Level Policies on Alternative Pathways to Teacher Certification in the United States: Are Candidates Prepared to Teach Literacy?

Jill Lewis-Spector
Immediate Past President of ILA

During the past 15 years, nearly 50 percent of novice teachers in the United States have entered the classroom through an alternate route preparation program. Do these programs prepare candidates to address students’ literacy needs? This session reports findings of a national study and suggests policy actions that respond to program shortcomings.

| Music 222 | Accelerating Emergent Literacy Development Through Mini-Shared Reading and Writing
Dr. Teddi Eberly-Martin, University of North Texas, TX
In this interactive workshop, participants will learn how to “teach to the potential” rather than students’ current literacy levels through Mini-Shared Reading and Writing small group instruction. | Struggling Readers            |
| Music 218 | Rapping, Rocking, and Reading: Using Song Lyrics for Close Reading to Increase Student Engagement
Dr. Christina Goss, Houston ISD, TX
In this session, secondary teachers will experience the close reading process from a student’s perspective. In addition, they will be provided with resources and a rationale for using song lyrics for text analysis. | Close Reading and Text Complexity |
| Music 321 | Using Children’s Literature Text Sets to Foster Critical Literacy
Dr. Amie Sarker, University of Dallas, TX
Dr. Carmen Newstreet, University of Dallas, TX
Presenters will share children's literature text sets and literature response activities while discussing how participants can utilize the text sets to develop critical literacy and content area literacy skills in social studies. | Comprehension                  |
| Music 120 | The Talk/Text Connection: Conferring with Readers to Increase Comprehension
Dr. Katie Atkins, Klein ISD, TX
As literacy educators, we often find ourselves in the role of a coach. As students practice their reading skills, we must be able to help our students read deeper, think critically, and self-monitor the quality of their reading comprehension. This session explores ways in which teachers can confer with readers and coach them in developing effective reading habits. | Comprehension                  |
| Bonilla 120 | Transforming Literacy and Learning for Struggling Readers Through the Arts
Dr. Neva Cramer, Schreiner University, TX
Based on the research from Harvard’s Project Zero and the Guggenheim Museum -Teaching Literacy through Art program, the arts infused strategies presented in this session are designed to enhance critical and creative thinking skills and develop literacy skills. Through an interactive workshop format, participants will explore the arts as pedagogy for effective literacy instruction and learn how to make their classroom relevant and engaging for today’s diverse students who struggle to read due to language barriers, cultural diversity, or environment. | Struggling Readers            |
| Music 113 | Interactive Sight Word Walls K-2
Alma Fernandez-Villanueva, Northside ISD, TX
Ariscela Saenz, Northside ISD, TX
In this session, teachers K-2 will learn how sight words can be embedded in their word walls to help students build their sight word vocabulary. Sight word strategies and activities will be shared. Teachers will make and take word wall activities to promote sight word development. | Vocabulary                     |

Dr. Kamshia Childs, San Jacinto College, TX
This session will use social media, reflective writing, and journal tasks designed to improve students' writing skills in a manner that is engaging and builds confidence in writing. Numerous writing prompts that can be integrated across various subject areas and a list of digital resources that can easily be implemented during instruction will be shared with attendees. | Academic Writing |
| Bonilla 219 | What’s Hot?....Tailored Instruction
Lisa Ann Miller, Independent North Texas Community Educator, TX
Motivate student engagement with relevant and interactive curriculum and strategies directed towards each student, not just the middle. | Struggling Readers |
| Bonilla 123 | Gamification of Literacy: A Dual Language, Dual Generation Approach to Motivating Youth
Gabriel Garcia, Parents Alliance, TX
Jose Pablo Fernandez, Sr., Parents Alliance, TX
Dr. Karen Weiller Abels, Kinetikidz, TX
This presentation highlights the dual language, dual generation approach to literacy combined with gamification of books, activities, and online resources. It creates a unique environment that motivates youth to engage in STEM learning, team building, and cooperative learning. This presentation includes a demonstration by Gabriel Garcia, award winning Program Director and iPad game developer. | Motivation |
| Bonilla 221 | What’s Different About Differentiation?
Dr. Ferne Beth Farkas, Texas A&M University-Commerce, TX
Differentiation does not mean changing schedules and lesson plans. This session will introduce attendees to active strategies that provide the means for all learners to fully engage with and fully respond to instruction. | Struggling Readers |
| Bonilla 223 | Critical Media Literacy for Social Media Users
Dr. Gwynne Ellen Ash, Texas State University, TX
Dr. Jane Saunders, Texas State University, TX
Adults often have difficulty discerning which sites and social media posts share reliable information, and children and adolescents are challenged even further. In this session, you will learn to identify features that warn which sites and posts might be unreliable, the types of misinformation that is most often shared, and how you can critique and confront misinformation when it appears on your homepages or in your internet searches. | New Literacies/Digital Literacies |
| Bonilla 220 | Vocabulary App Smashing
Jessica Rogers, Literacy Fusions
Sherry McElhannon, Literacy Fusions
This session will help participants understand the vocabulary standards, the basics of combining two or more apps to create a more meaningful product, and provide practical ideas to help teachers app smash their way to a stronger vocabulary for their students. | Vocabulary |
Getting Students Hooked on the Reading Habit

Linda Gambrell
Past President of ILA & 2004 Reading Hall of Fame Inductee

There is a robust body of research that supports independent, sustained silent reading in the classroom. Evidence indicates that the more students engage in reading, the better readers they become. This session will focus on research that provides guidelines for creating classroom climates that foster the development of proficient, persistent and passionate readers. Motivational strategies and practical instructional techniques to help students get hooked on the reading habit will be highlighted.

This session explores ways to incorporate outstanding nonfiction and informational texts into teaching. Drawing on a unit saluting the centennial of the U.S. National Park System, it features engaging activities and research-based teaching strategies. |
| Bonilla 221 | Applying the ARCS Model of Motivational Design in Instruction
Dr. Stephen R. Rodriguez, Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, TX
This presentation addresses the structure and use of the highly practical ARCS Model of motivational design. The presenter offers concrete advice and examples on applying the model in teaching and instructional materials in all subject areas. |
| Bonilla 223 | Literacy Coaching and School-Level Contextual Factors in Advancing Literacy Education
Gabriel Pietrzak, New York City Department of Education, NY
Pilar Ramos, New York City Department of Education, NY
Jenna Schumsky, New York City Department of Education, NY
The Middle School Quality Initiative (MSQI) provides a literacy coach to participating New York City schools to support them in achieving core activities for full integration of literacy education. According to an annual program evaluation, low performing schools and schools with a low proportion of effective teachers tend to also have low implementation fidelity; however, coaches seem to mitigate this difficulty, bolstering schools to achieve fidelity in spite of low capacity. Join us in exploring this data. |
| Bonilla 220 | Up Close and Personal: Laying the Foundation for Close Reading with Early Readers
Dr. Lillian Benavente-McEnery, University of Houston-Clear Lake, TX
Participants will explore various activities and strategies for use with early readers geared at laying the foundation for close reading of narrative as well as expository texts. |
Roundtables (9:40-10:50 am)

Roundtable sessions are grouped by common themes and guided by a discussant. Each presentation is 15 minutes, and an additional 10 minutes will be provided at the end of the hour for additional questions and discussion. This session will share a study that examined the myriad of components that have contributed to the phenomenal accomplishments of the educated populace in Singapore.

Teaching YAL and Feminist Literary Theory Through The Road of Lost Innocence — The True Story of a Cambodian Heroine
Charity Embley, Texas Tech University, TX

The life story of Somaly Mam is an ideal portrayal of the feminist literary theory. The literary theory behind this text will be explained and used to teach feminism. Instructional samples will be shared.

Adult Literacy in Saudi Arabia Society
Ohud Alqarni, University of the Incarnate Word, TX

This session will explore women’s educational issues in Saudi society.

Characterizing the Development of Adolescent Literacies: Global Accounts that Influence Policy and Practice
Dr. Rosalind Horowitz, University of Texas at San Antonio, TX
Dr. Lisa Griffith, University of Texas at San Antonio, TX

This session will review accounts of international performance on several measures including the Programme for International Student Achievement (PISA) in reading, mathematics, and science.

Table Three (Music 113)

Table Discussant: Dr. Wolfram Verlaan

Enhancing Expository Writing with Technology
Dr. Carol W. Fetters, Innovations with Solutions, TX

This roundtable discussion will focus on opportunities for educators to discuss how to make connections with writing and nonlinguistic representations (e.g., graphic organizers) with the use of free technology applications. Examples will be provided.

A Picture is Worth a Thousand Words: Using Visual Thinking Strategies to Develop Critical Engagement with Reluctant Writers
Danielle Butcher, Louisiana State University, LA

This session on Visual Thinking Strategies (VTS) presents findings from an action research study that focused on engaging reluctant writers in a 9th grade English course. Findings, which included developing critical thinking, increasing enthusiasm, and promoting collaborative engagement can be applied to several grade levels.

Using Digital Writing Portfolios and Student-led Conferences to Increase Student Motivation and Parental Engagement
Dr. Wolfram Verlaan, University of Alabama in Huntsville, AL
Meredith Mims, Huntsville City Schools, AL
Melissa Shull, Huntsville City Schools, AL

In this session, a kindergarten teacher and a 5th Grade teacher share their experiences with how using digital portfolios as a focus of student-led parent conferences can increase: (a) student engagement in assignments, and (b) parental involvement in the students’ schoolwork.

English Vocabulary for English Language Learners: Perspectives From Bilingual and Foreign Language Classrooms |

Jimena Guerra, University of Texas at San Antonio, TX
Dr. Hsiao-Ping Wu, University of Texas at San Antonio, TX

| This dynamic presentation will focus on empirical studies for learning English vocabulary and information about interactive activities will be shared. In addition, perspectives from bilingual and EFL classrooms will be discussed. |

The Importance of Practicing Oral Language Strategies Daily in Your Classroom to Enhance Reading Comprehension |

Joel Blaylock, Texas A&M-Commerce, TX
Rene Sawatsky, Texas A&M-Commerce, TX

| This roundtable discussion explores how research and practical strategies can increase oral language skills leading to increased comprehension and higher test scores. |

Coaching for Growth: Empowering Teachers Through Dialogue |

Heather Wall, Hall County Schools, GA
Micelle Palmer, Hall County Schools, GA

| As teachers work with administrators, coaches, and colleagues, we must be intentional about how we communicate in order to sustain healthy relationships and promote our own growth as teachers. In this session, we use Paulo Freire’s conditions for dialogue as a helpful structure for examining our language and envisioning teacher empowerment. |

Updated Children’s Literature Title Recognition Test |

Dr. Tiana McCoy Pearce, Kansas State University, KS

| This session will discuss an adapted instrument used to measure knowledge of children’s literature through an updated list of titles identified by elementary students and parents, professors of literacy, librarians, and inservice educators. |
Using a Qualitative Scale to Evaluate the Complexity of Informational Texts and Trade Books
Dr. Sherrye Dee Garrett, Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, TX
Jeannette Gomez, Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, TX
Rosalyynn Rowan Christensen, Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, TX

This session introduces a 13-element, 3-level scale to evaluate qualitative complexity of nonfiction texts; complexity elements include density and complexity, voice, register, and text features. Research will be presented; participants will apply the scale to representative books.

Using Text Complexity to Choose Read Alouds for K-2
Dr. Jill R. Culmo, Dallas ISD, TX
Dr. Margie Garcia, Dallas ISD, TX
Dr. Robin D. Johnson, Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, TX
Dr. Micheal J. Kessner, Mesquite ISD, TX

To better prepare students for life and work outside of school, educators should increase the complexity of the text being used in classrooms and keep instruction challenging. We will discuss how K-2 educators can evaluate text complexity to choose appropriate and engaging texts for classroom read alouds.

Table Six (Music 120)

Meeting the Whole Student’s Need to Achieve Literacy
Dr. Nissa Ingraham, Northwest Missouri State University, MO
Dr. Susanne Nuttall, Northwest Missouri State University, MO

Evaluation of elementary student literacy development and of preservice teacher readiness to meet the whole student’s needs was the focus of a collaborative study in Florida. Results from the study and how they can impact the elementary classroom and the teacher preparation of elementary teacher will be reviewed.

Preservice Teacher Engagement in Critical Reading and Critical Writing
Dr. Bernice Sanchez, Texas A&M International University, TX

This presentation is based on findings from a pilot study on preservice teachers’ enrolled in teacher preparation courses that examined their engagement in reading and writing activities using specific critical prompts that required higher levels of critical engagement.

Perceptions of School-Wide SIM Implementation to Address Written Expression for K-12 Students with Learning Differences
Dr. Heather Haynes Smith, Trinity University, TX
Dr. Courtney Lambert Crim, Trinity University, TX

This study investigated teacher perceptions of a four-year, school-wide implementation of Strategic Instruction Model (SIM) Learning Strategies addressing written expression. This presentation will share educator perceptions of the strengths, barriers, student successes, and areas for future growth.

Guilty of Assigning Writing Rather Than Teaching It: Three Secondary Language Arts Teachers Take a Unit of Study Approach to Teach Writing
Dr. Benita R. Brooks, Sam Houston State University, TX
Dr. Nancy K. Votteler, Sam Houston State University, TX

This presentation will describe how three secondary English/language arts teachers, enrolled in an online summer writing institute, employed the unit of study framework to move beyond using writing as a way to measure what students learned to using it as a tool to teach students new ways of thinking.
Table Seven (Music 120)

Table Discussant: Dr. Kathryn Pole

Preservice Secondary Teachers’ Text Sets: Constructing Pathways into Disciplinary Literacy for Adolescents
Dr. Annamary L. Consalvo, The University of Texas at Tyler, TX

This presentation will address what counts as “text” when inviting preservice secondary teachers of physical education, math, and music to create disciplinary text sets in a required “content literacy” teacher education course. Participants will be invited to consider ways in which multimodal texts in the data may serve as examples of disciplinary literacy texts that are engaging for students.

Physical Education and Literacy: How to Make the Team Work
Marcus Johnson, St. Philips School/Dallas Baptist University, TX

This presentation will help to bring about an understanding on why literacy in physical education is important, as well as presenting an actualization of how to combine literacy and physical education.

What’s In It For Me? Understanding PE Preservice Teachers’ Beliefs About Disciplinary Literacy
Dr. Ann D. David, University of the Incarnate Word, TX

This roundtable presents findings from a study of preservice physical education teachers and their understandings of, beliefs about, and practices around literacy with physical education contexts.

Tweeting in Class Because Our Professor Told Us To: Using Twitter to Build PLNs in a Preservice Teacher Disciplinary Literacy Course
Dr. Kathryn Pole, University of Texas at Arlington, TX

Preservice content-area teachers used Twitter to create Personal Learning Networks (PLNs) as a way to deeply connect their teaching areas to disciplinary literacy. As students built their networks, they were able to see how literacy was used in their content-areas and built foundations for future self-determined professional development.

Table Eight (Music 120)

Table Discussant: Dr. Laurie A. Sharp

Finding a Place for Fluency: Instructional Approaches in the Classroom
Mary Shelton, Texas A&M University-Commerce, TX
Dr. Susan Szabo, Texas A&M University-Commerce, TX

Fluency has struggled to find its place in the instructional design of balanced literacy. We will explore the various intervention models for increasing fluency and determine the most effective for classroom use.

Independent Reading: Are They Really Reading?
Tara Wilson, Sam Houston State University, TX
Renee O’Neal, Sam Houston State University, TX

An instructional coach and an elementary principal discuss independent reading. This will include ways to tell if students are really reading and how to make the most of that time for both teacher and student.

Let’s Get Back to Basics to Increase Career and College-Level Reading Readiness: Secondary Students Interacting with Traditional Print Matter
Dr. Cheryl A. Slattery, Shippensburg University of Pennsylvania, PA

This roundtable presentation will assert that traditional print matter – textbooks, short stories, newspapers, novels – still holds sway in helping with sustained reading of complex texts, which is a contributing factor in career and college-level reading readiness.
Handwriting — A Skill of the Past or Here to Stay?
Dr. Laurie A. Sharp, West Texas A&M University, TX
Sarah Titus, Tarleton State University, TX

Digital tools and technological advances within the 21st century have challenged the relevance of handwriting and have many concerned about the current state of handwriting instruction. Join this roundtable presentation to learn more about and discuss the findings and implications from two recent studies related to current classroom practices and perspectives of practicing teachers regarding handwriting.

Table Nine (Music 120)

Table Discussant: Dr. Jake Hollatz

Educational Technology and Problem-Based Learning in Teacher Preparation: A New Paradigm for Preparing Teacher Candidates to Understand Technology in Language Arts Classrooms
Dr. Jake Hollatz, Concordia University, TX

Understanding how problem-based learning (PBL) and educational technology intersect with language arts is essential for teacher candidates entering the 21st century classroom. Experiences of undergraduate teacher candidates with technology and PBL will frame this presentation.

Augmenting the Reading of Informational Text with Augmented Reality
Kaye A. Robinson, University of the Incarnate Word, TX

Augmented reality can be used to scaffold independent reading of informational texts. Find out how augmented reality addresses the needs of readers.

Preservice Teachers’ Perceptions of Augmented Reality
Dr. C.L. McNair, Texas A&M Kingsville, TX

This session will present findings from a systematic, analytical evaluation of potential augmented reality books by preservice teachers.

Digital Literacy’s Impact on Academic English
Dr. Hsiao-Ping Wu, University of Texas at San Antonio, TX

This presentation will present an empirical study that examined the relationship between online literacy practice and its impact on academic literacy. Pedagogical implications will also be discussed.

Johnathan Rand
Author

He's one of the most successful self-published authors in the world, but you may have never heard of him. That's because Johnathan Rand likes to do things a little different, including blazing his own trail to create several hit series of books (American Chillers, Freddie Fernortner, Fearless First Grader, The Adventure Club) with over 5 million copies in print! Since 2000, Rand has visited and lectured at over 1,600 schools and libraries across the US and Canada. In 2006, he opened 'Chillermania,' a retail store in Michigan that sells only his books, now welcoming 25,000+ visitors each year. Two years later, he and his wife hosted 'Author Quest,' a unique, one-of-a-kind 4-day/3 night writing camp for kids age 10-13. Now in its 8th year, Author Quest is held three times each year and draws young authors from all across the country. Find out how literacy changed Johnathan Rand's life, and how he's using his skills to help change the lives of countless young readers and writers!

Today’s students encounter a wide variety of digital reading experiences and electronic texts. This session explores how to teach and use digital reading strategies best suited for various e-texts including websites, e-books, e-textbooks, and audiobooks. |
| Bonilla 219 | Building Vocabulary Effectively
Dawn Rogers, Center for the Collaborative Classroom, CA
How can teachers help students develop and expand their vocabulary while sharpening their skills for independent word learning? Experience and view a lesson grounded in research that leads to more active and engaging vocabulary instruction. |
| Bonilla 220 | Close Reading in Picture Books: A Consideration of the Interdependency of Visual and Written Text for Deep Comprehension
Dr. Lori Ann Falcon, University of the Incarnate Word, TX
This session presents a qualitative case study of one first grade class that explored the importance of written and visual literacy focusing on peritextual features or deliberate signs/symbols used by authors/illustrators to convey important story information in high quality picture books as a means for deep comprehension. The session will provide hands-on strategies for complex picture books. |
| Bonilla 120 | Including ALL Students: Eight Strategies for Making Language and Literacy Instruction Accessible for Children with Hearing Loss
Tamby Allman, Texas Woman’s University, TX
Eight overarching strategies for creating an optimal literacy learning environment for learners with hearing loss and making learning accessible for all learners will be the focus of this interactive presentation. Participants will leave with a clear picture of the challenges students with hearing loss face, modifications to enhance their instruction and a plethora of ideas and resources for differentiating instruction. |
| Bonilla 122 | “We’ve Done the Dance”: Exploring Coaching Conversations with Teachers
Dr. Bethanie Pletcher, Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, TX
In this session, we will examine how literacy coaches can hone their dialogue skills so that they are talking with teachers in ways that help them feel empowered to move to the next stages of reflection and planning. This session is based on recently completed research with an elementary school-based literacy coach. |

20 Years Ago: When "What's Hot, What's Not" and the Original Expert Study Were First Shared

Rona Flippo

Come listen to Dr. Rona Flippo as she describes her original research.

“Remembering back to when I first presented the results of my Expert Study for a Keynote Address at the College Reading Association (CRA), Jack Cassidy had just published "What's Hot" for the first time and I had just published the Expert Study results in the Kappan. It was fascinating to see and report to the audience that some of the very things that the Experts agreed would help develop readers were the things that Jack's Leaders felt were not hot at all, and what was hot were some of the practices that the Experts agreed would make learning to read difficult for students! Talk about validation of results--the audience loved it--and so did Jack, who was in the audience!”

-Dr. Rona Flippo

Rona Flippo is Professor of Education at the University of Massachusetts Boston. She’s authored 18 books, most recently Studying and Learning in a High Stakes World: Making Tests Work for Teachers (2015); Assessing Readers 2nd ed. (2014); Reading Researchers in Search of Common Ground: The Expert Study Revisited 2nd ed. (2012); Handbook of College Reading and Study Strategy Research 2nd ed. (2009); other titles, with Heinemann include Personal Reading (2005), Texts and Tests (2004), and What Do the Experts Say? (1999). Rona is currently working on a four-volume set of books for Routledge, titled Great Works: Reading. She’s also published over 100 articles/chapters in publications including Journal of Adolescent & Adult Literacy, The Reading Teacher, Reading Psychology, Journal of Reading, Reading & Writing Quarterly, Phi Delta Kappan, Educational Leadership, Journal of Teacher Education; served on various professional organization committees, as well as editorial and director boards, in organizations that include Literacy Research Association (formerly, National Reading Conference), Association of Literacy Educators and Researchers (formerly, College Reading Association), American Educational Research Association, and the Massachusetts Association of College and University Reading Educators, as well as the International Reading Association (now, International Literacy Association). Most recently, Dr. Flippo was elected Vice-President of ALER (2015-2016) and served on the IRA/ILA Board of Directors (2012-2015).

What’s Hot: 2017 and Beyond

Marcie Craig Post

Executive Director of ILA

The International Literacy Association (ILA) is focusing attention on two critical issues – global literacy and digital literacy/new literacies. While digital literacy/new literacies has been a topic on the What’s Hot list for the last decade, global literacy is a topic that has rarely appeared on the list and has definitely been rated “not hot” when it has appeared on the list. In this session, we will explore these two critical issues and the inter-relatedness of them, examine the public discourse in relationship to them, and examine the initiatives taken by ILA to raise awareness as to their importance.

Marcie Craig Post is the Executive Director of the ILA, a nonprofit, global network of literacy educators that for more than 60 years, has provided teachers and leaders with the resources and expertise to effectively teach literacy. ILA sets the standards and agendas for literacy instruction and evaluation and advocates for the cause of literacy through its global community of more than 300,000 literacy practitioners across 79 countries. Post possesses more than 20 years of experience in the leadership and management of nonprofit educational organizations. The focus of her career has been the improvement and enrichment of reading and language development programs for school-age youth, and creation of a supportive environment of professional learning to enhance teacher practice. Prior to joining ILA, Post served as CEO of Education Enterprises of New York, as Chief Program and Education Officer for GEMS Americas/Global Partnership Schools, and as an independent consultant focused on building nonprofit capacity.

Making Facts Fun:
Using Nonfiction in the Classroom

John Micklos, Jr.
Author

Facts are fun, and the stories behind those facts can be fascinating. John Micklos, Jr., the author of more than 20 books, including many history and biography titles for young readers, firmly believes that nonfiction offers far more than the dry facts that some teachers expect. Furthermore, current standards call for increased emphasis on nonfiction texts. Explore ideas for using nonfiction in the classroom and for helping students understand the various text features that can help them fully comprehend and appreciate nonfiction works.

Style: The content, organization, and style of manuscripts must follow the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (6th edition).

Format:

- Length: 2,000 to 4,000 words double-spaced
- Abstract: 75-150 words

Title Page: Must include author(s) name(s), full title of conference presentation, manuscript title, email addresses, phone numbers, affiliations, and date of submission

Tables and Figures: Must be prepared as per APA guidelines and embedded within the manuscript (not in a separate file).

Photographs/Artwork: It is the author’s responsibility to obtain any needed releases/permissions for photograph/image use.

Special Note: Authors must remove identifying information from their manuscripts to ensure a fair review. Specifically, if you cite your own work (and state in the paper that it is your work), you should cite it as “author (date)” rather than giving your name. Please do this in both the text and the reference list.

Procedures: Send an electronic copy of the title page and the manuscript in a .doc (or .docx) format to taleyyearbook@gmail.com. The two files should be sent together and should be named with the same abbreviated title of the manuscript. Please include the words “TALE 2016 Yearbook” in the subject line of the email. A confirmation of receipt will be sent by email. If a confirmation receipt is not received, please send an inquiry to the email address above or to the Managing Editor directly (eemartin@uiwtx.edu).

Deadline: May 30, 2016

Are you interested in serving as a reviewer for the 2016 Yearbook?
